Adamson named 2006 "Woman of the Year" by CWIT

Charleston, SC - (March 17, 2006) Jacqueline H. Adamson, Regional Vice President for Roanoke Trade Services, Inc., has been named 2006 "Woman of the Year" by Charleston Women in International Trade (CWIT). A founding member of CWIT, Ms. Adamson has been in leadership positions in many port area and national organizations during her career and was recently recognized by the Maritime Association of the Port of Charleston with their "Beacon" lifetime achievement award for distinguished service to the Port. She was the first woman to serve on the Board of Directors of the National Customs Brokers & Freight Forwarders Association, the first woman to chair their Legislative Committee, and co-chaired the Automated Export System Committee, which advised the U.S. Customs Service on the new AES design. Past leadership positions include President of the Woman's Transportation Club of Charleston, President of Delta Nu Alpha Transportation Fraternity, President of Customs Brokers & Freight Forwarders Association of Charleston, Director of the SC World Trade Center Education Foundation, recipient of the Charleston Business & Professional Woman's Association's "Career Woman of the Year" award, and much more.

Ms. Adamson will be presented the award at the CWIT 2006 Annual Banquet on April 11th. The evening begins at 6:30 p.m. at the Charleston Place Hotel. Visit www.cwitsc.org/banquet.asp or email cwit@scspa.com for more information.
